ONE FEDERAL OFFICER KILLED AND OTHER IS BADLY SHOT IN HANCOCK

During Attempt to Raid Still Near Necaise Crossing—Bonds for Zeno Hode and Sylvester Cameron, Charged With Shooting, Fixed at $10,000 Each—Extensive Investigations In Progress.

Zeno Hode, aged 40 and Sylvester Cameron, 40 years old, residents of Bay St. Louis, are under arrest and charged with killing Federal Agent Robert M. Buck, and seriously wounding Special Agent Otis Williams, both residents of Gulfport.

Robert M. Buck was killed instantly and the next day his remains were taken back to his old home at Lexington, survived by his wife and two children, while Otis Williams lies dangerously wounded in the Kings Daughters Hospital at Gulfport.

Charged in government affidavits with conspiracy to violate the prohibition act; assault on federal officer, and conspiracy to interfere with and resist him in the performance of duty of search and seizure of liquors and stills and making arrests as a federal prohibition officer, Zeno Hode, of Kiln and Sylvester Cameron, resident near the same community, were in custody with bonds fixed at $10,000 each.

The federal complaints were filed before United States Commissioner George P. Money in Biloxi Tuesday.

Government investigators from New Orleans continued questioning nine other arrested suspects that included two small boys but no new developments have been reported. There have been no new arrests or any additional federal affidavits filed, it was said.

A large number of investigators from New Orleans and Mobile, who joined Mississippi authorities Tuesday in the widespread search for the slayers and alleged operators of the liquor plant, returned to their home stations Wednesday morning.

Ellie S. Chapman, deputy prohibition administrator for north Mississippi, headquarters at Clarksdale, arrived in Bayport Tuesday night to assist M. H. Daily of Jackson, deputy prohibition administrator for south Mississippi.

Hode is under guard at the King's Daughters Hospital in Gulfport recovering from bullet wounds inflicted in his right shoulder and neck. Cameron is lodged in the Harrison county jail.

The wounded suspect was arrested Monday morning at the residence of an uncle, approximately five miles from the slaying scene, after bloodhounds had trailed to Hode's home, one-half mile from the liquor still site, where bloodstains were reported to have been found by officers, it was said.

Cameron was taken into custody during the widespread search over Hancock county's countryside.

Buck was instantly killed Monday night when he and three other federal officers surprised four alleged moonshine manufacturers at an illicit still near Bayou la Terre, 4 miles west of Dedeaux.

The operators opened fire on the dry raiders without warning, dropping Buck with seven slugs the first shot and dangerously wounding Williams with a second shot before Clayton Smith and Smith D. Robinson, other members of the federal prohibition party could return fire.

Williams, shortly after the shooting, was reported to be resting quietly.

The murder of Federal Officer Buck followed within less than one month after the execution in Covington county of Guy Fairley, convicted and hanged for the murder of Prohibition Officer C. E. Everett, brother of former County Superintendent of Education Everett, of Hancock county.

OCEAN SPRINGS TO GET NEW PUBLIC PIER

Rotary Club Working On Plan To Acquire Structure

Ocean Springs has long needed a public pier. An opportunity is now presented to secure a large and commodious structure of ample length at a fraction of the original cost. Details are withheld at this time as too much publicity might be fatal, but we will say the Rotary Club is working on the proposition in cooperation with the town officials and it is hoped some plan may be evolved whereby the town will be able to finance the purchase and erect the pier. It will be a big asset to the town.

CITY BAND GIVES FINE RECITAL

Bay St. Louis Municipal Band Please Large and Critical Audience—Gulf-Port Talent Added.

There was a sufficiently large audience Thursday night of last week to enjoy the splendid concert given by the Bay St. Louis Municipal Band, in annual recital at Bay High Auditorium.

The band has been organized and practice hardly over a year and it is recognized not for the fact that it is a civic enterprise and should be encouraged and supported but due to the fact of the marked progress the young gentlemen and lady members had made in so comparatively a short time.

The violin solo by Prof. Ramsey, leader and teacher of the band; cornet solo, "Mighty Lak a Rose," by Charles A. Breath, Jr., and Mirambal solos by Miss Emma Lou Stokoe, (Miss Edith Dearman, accompanist) were easily outstanding numbers.

Program by the band proper included "The Show Boy," Hutchinson Field and "School Colors," marches. Overture of second part, "Recreation," followed by a "Basket of Roses," "Going Home," large from the new symphony, "Imp o' Luck," Nelo Waltz, "Our Yell Leader," and march, "Our First Parade." Mr. E. von Ehren rendered a few remarks and announced the benefit minstrel for the band on Thursday night of this week.

In all the Band and its associate distinguished themselves with marked credit and every encouragement is well worthy of bestowal. We shall anticipate the second annual concert next year.

COAST COUNCIL LEGION AUXILIARY HOLD ALL DAY SESSION IN BAY CITY

Bay St. Louis and Gulfport Tie For Attendance Award—Five Cities Represented—Two Fail to Send Delegates—Pascagoula To Have Next Meet Latter Part of March.

Forty-seven delegates from five units were in attendance on Thursday of last week in this city at the all-day session of the Coast Council Legion of the American Legion Auxiliary, which convened at Hotel Weston.

Bay and Gulfport Tie.

Bay St. Louis and Gulfport units, with 14 each in attendance, tied for the attendance award. Heretofore Gulfport has held the attendance record at all council meetings during the two years of the organization. The units represented were Bay St. Louis, Gulfport, Biloxi, Pascagoula and Ocean Springs. Two others, Wiggins and Picayune had been invited to join this council but failed to send delegates.

All of the five units in their reports showed increased membership over last year. Bay St. Louis has more than doubled its last year's membership and four of the five had not only reached their 1932 quota but have surpassed it. From the reports it appears that three units will be 100 per cent on the standard of excellence for the year.

Mrs. C. S. Everts of Gulfport, former state department president and president of the council, presided at the session. She reports that among suggestions made at the meeting were those providing for a division of the membership into two groups, one of the groups to plan the program and entertainment which would be kept secret from the other group whose duty it would be to get members to the meeting, and for frequent initiations of new members.

Luther W. Maples Honor Guest.

The honor guest of the meeting was Luther W. Maples of Gulfport, state department commander of the American Legion, who presented the national and state legislative programs of the Legion. He told of the membership parade which was held in Jackson Tuesday of this week at

HOME AGAIN WATCHMAN FROM DELTA TAKES CAR SECTION WAS STOLEN

Men Sent to Flooded Area
Of North Mississippi Spent
Ten Days in Rescue Work

Volunteers from Bay St. Louis section who left here about two weeks for the flooded delta section, returned home Friday night, after serving in the high water territory for ten days.

These young men were Malcolm Coward, Harold Netto, Edward Nathan and Bill Watts, who left here under the auspices of the Hancock County Post American Legion, and co-operating with state Legion authorities.

Arriving at Charleston the men were located at a hotel there and at once started out in the work of relief, working directly under the American Red Cross that took charge of the situation. The men had left Bay St. Louis with eight boats and manned these day and part of the night, going over the flood waters and picking up floating property and entering the attics of submerged homes and rescuing people and transporting their belongings to places of safety. They said numbers of live stock were drowned and it was no uncommon sight to see the foliage of trees sheltering rabbits and other small game. Snakes thus seeking shelter were plentiful.

The Red Cross, they stated had built some hundred and odd canoes and turned these over to the residents of where the water was covering property.

J. A. Blount, adjutant of the Legion Post at Charleston, and Ralph Landry, of Summer, were acting heads of the relief work and worked indefatigably. The waters are fast receding, said one of the returned workers to The Echo, and things will soon get back to normalcy, although the damage done by the water is irreparable, so to speak. The planters of that section, one said, are ruined for the present, topped with the depression and payment of taxes now due. It seems every adverse element possible conspired to make the situation as acute as could be. The Bay men did good work and the local Post served a good purpose.

MINSTREL SHOW

There should be a large attendance at the minstrel performance this Thursday night at Bay Hi, benefit uniform fund Bay Municipal Band. A better show than ever is promised.

HANCOCK COUNTY BANK IS CHOSEN COUNTY DEPOSIT- TORY BY SUPERVISORS

According to bid made by the Hancock County Bank, that institution was selected as the official depository by the local board of supervisors for the ensuing year, having served in that capacity the past year. The bank at once qualified and is again the full-fledged depository of the county.

which the Auxiliary "rode" and the Legion "walked" because the Legion lagged behind in the percentage membership. During this parade Governor Sennet Conner received from the hands of Commander Maples a copy of the state legislative program and at which Governor Conner stated he would sign all legislation presented by the Legion which the Legislature passed. A tribute was paid by Commander Maples to the work of the Auxiliary in the state under the leadership of Mrs. T. R. Warburton, state Auxiliary president.

At the noon hour, luncheon was served picnic style in the sunparlor of the hotel, members attending having taken sandwiches with them and the hostess unit furnishing "extras." Several Legionnaires joined the ladies for luncheon.

The next quarterly meeting will be held in Pascagoula the date to fall the latter part of March or first of April.

Mrs. Laurent Dickson, president of the local Auxiliary, and Commander Laurent Dickson of the local Legion Post, including Legionnaire Henry Canderson, were among those representing Hancock County at the all day meet.

New Night Watchman Mark
Oliver Recovers Big Buick That Was Stolen From
N. O. Owner

Wednesday morning, at about 4 o'clock while night watchman Mark Oliver was patrolling his beat in the neighborhood of Porter's Filling Station, a big Buick four-door sedan, with two men, stopped and asked him what town this was to which he gave the proper reply. One of the men said, "I thought so." Asked if he was on night or day duty, Oliver evasively replied he was off duty and was going home.

Reaching the corner of Beach and Court street the car halted and parked, while Oliver watched hidden from sight. The two men, both young fellows and fairly well dressed, got out, crossed the street and were soon lost in the haze of night. Failing to return to their car, Oliver investigated and finally took possession and drove it to the courthouse yard and communicated with Sheriff T. E. Kellar.

It was discovered the car had only gone 1200 miles, carried a Texas license, LG-7218, on the rear and a Mississippi license to the front which had been sold to W. L. Herring from Biloxi, for a Ford coupe, and also stolen. Within the handsome car were found two buckshot cartridges, two caps and a bottle of water and one of the tires bore the fact that a pistol shot had penetrated through the rubber outer edge.

M. S. Taylor, attorney for Carl W. Beckman, residing 518 Walnut street New Orleans, and originally from California, came out from New Orleans Wednesday night and with sheriff Kellar identified the car as that for his client. He said it was new, a 1932 model, and had been stolen Monday night.

"Mr. and Mrs. Beckman had their car parked in front of their residence, in Walnut street," said Mr. Taylor, "in charge of Dozier Holleman, the young colored chauffeur, while waiting for his master and wife who were preparing to go to the ball of Elvies of Oberon, and even after the happening, went to the ball after all."

"It appears," Mr. Taylor said, "two men came along Walnut street and with a revolver entered the car and told the chauffeur to drive down St. Charles avenue a distance, when they took complete charge of the auto."

Mr. Beckman lives in California and was spending the winter South, en route having visited his father, president of the Royal Products Company, of Shreveport, La., a man of vast means. The handsome car gave evidence that it was the property of the family of means. It was taken back to New Orleans Thursday, after released by Sheriff Kellar.

The bullet mark in the car gives rise to the possibility that the stolen car was used by two men who held up a filling station in Louisiana interior Monday night, when one, named Ruiz, was killed by the owner of the station, and the other escaped with the car, after several shots had been fired in the direction of its departure.

P. T. A. AND SCHOOL CHILDREN TO HAVE TREE PLANTING DAY

In Observance of Washington's Bi-Centennial Anniversary—Friday Feb. 12

The Parent-Teacher Association has presented the Central School with a living Xmas tree to be planted with an appropriate program in recognition of the Washington Bi-Centennial on Friday, February 12. There will be the regular monthly meeting of the P. T. A. at the school at 2 P. M., followed by the planting of the tree at 2:30 with the children participating in the program, after which the P. T. A. will observe its own national birthday by the candle lighting ceremony and a tea in the domestic science room. Everyone is cordially invited to come.

Both County and City Tax Collectors' offices have been crowded the early part of the week, particularly Monday, with taxpayers meeting their obligation. It appears the payment of taxes this year, compared with last year, has fallen off almost fifty percent. Tax Collector Egloff said on the 1st about from 50 to 75 per cent had paid, but this was a guess as figures were not available just then.

TO SHORTEN TERMS OF SCHOOLS

Lack of Funds to Continue Hancock County Schools
Good Reason to Cut Short Sessions

Nine grammar schools in Hancock county will close their sessions February 12, due to lack of funds to operate longer. A. S. McQueen, county superintendent of education announced. This will give the schools 6 1/2 months session this year instead of the usual 8 months which had been scheduled but because of no state funds to assist in carrying the schools longer the period is shortened. Heretofore state funds augmenting county funds have given sufficient money for the 8 months' term.

Between 500 and 600 students from the beginners through the 8th grades will be out of school as a result of the closing. The schools to close and the number of teachers affected follow: Cameron (Special, Gainesville, Gravel Pit, Bayou La Croix, all one teacher schools; Aaron Academy, Flat Top, Edwardsville, two teacher schools; Leetown and Catahoula, three-teacher schools; Logtown and Dedeaux, the latter a line school, anticipate 7 months of school.

Prof. McQueen states that plans are being made to continue Kiln and Sellers 8 months each so that the high school pupils will receive credit for their work. He is conferring with Prof. Geo. M. Dean, Harrison county superintendent of education, regarding the Sellers school which is a Harrison-Hancock line school.

NEW NIGHT WATCHMAN FOR CITY

County Deputizes Mark
Oliver—Private Watchman
For Business Section on Beach.

Mark Oliver, former city chief of police has been selected (by vote) of men and business women of the beach section, as private night watchman and on February 1 assumed the role of his new trust.

Officer Oliver will be paid by private subscription, but in order to give his position legal status, he was deputized by the county board of supervisors, operating under the office of the sheriff and Hancock county.

Officer Oliver was requested to give a good and solvent bond in the amount of $3,500 which he gave and at once qualified for the job. He has served in police capacity and will serve his trust fully and ably.

The business community feels the necessity of a special night officer, as a protection from theft depredation and to give the alarm of fire, if any such occurrence should be noted. Oliver succeeds Jules Fayard, who recently shot an itinerant tourist going through here one night two weeks ago, the victim of the bullet still in the local hospital and doing nicely.

CARNIVAL FUNCTION AT PASS CHRISTIAN FOR SATURDAY NIGHT

Beautiful Seasonable Event
To Take Place This Week;
Many From Bay to Attend

An annual event of much interest across the bay from Bay St. Louis, at Pass Christian, is the annual Carnival king and queen ball to be supported and attended by the elite of that city and surrounding territory, Bay St. Louis attending in a manner most liberal.

The beautiful queen for this year has been voted and the crown and mantle given to Miss Hazel Abbley, piquant and vivacious beauty, the honor and distinction that can only befall one each year. This being leap year, the king's identity has not been revealed and will be kept a secret until Saturday night when the queen will take advantage of leap year prerogative and select her own consort. This privilege will also be extended to the maids and the first three call-out dances will be according to this fashion, thus adding novelty and interest.

The ball will be held at the Carnival Palace "Gray Castle," where the spacious dining room will be converted into one big room and here the formal courtesies of each year's royalty for the past three years will take place.

In order to help a worthy and constructive cause and to keep the affair exclusive, an entrance fee will be asked, as per custom of each year. The Pass Christian Carnival ball has become a fixed institution and each year is looked forward to with more than ordinary interest. Many from Bay St. Louis will attend the function.

Miss Marie E. Bertrand and Mr. Bernard Knost were king and queen two years ago; last year the honors were worn by Mr. Elwood Abbley and Miss Emily Farrell.

Strawberries locally grown are on sale at Bay St. Louis stores. The berries, unusually early, are large and have good flavor. One store was selling the berries at 20 cents per box.

On Tuesday, February 2, His Excellency, Most Reverend Richard O. Gerow, D. D., Bishop of Natchez, Miss., presided at the solemn Silver Jubilee services of Very Rev. G. J. Heffels, S. V. D., Rector of St. Augustine's Seminary.

The chapel was filled to capacity. A large number of priests and friends attended the Solemn High Mass which was celebrated by the Jubilarian. The Rev. C. Baker, S. V. D., was Deacon; and the Rev. J. Kemper, S. V. D., was Subdeacon. After the gospel the Rev. James B. Albert, S. S. J., pastor of Heart of Mary Colored parish, Mobile, Ala., preached an eloquent jubilee sermon. In the course of the sermon he expatiated on the dignity of the priesthood in general and on the work of the Society of the Divine Word in particular. He made special mention of their work in educating young men of the colored race to the priesthood at St. Augustine's Seminary.

The orator said in part: "Opportunities for colored young men to study for the priest hood have been offered elsewhere, especially in the college and seminary of the Josephite Fathers. But subjects did not come in appreciable numbers. A few years ago due to the daring and vision of the Divine Word Fathers, and especially to the zeal of the saintly Father Christman, whose body lies buried in these grounds, this separate institution was founded for colored aspirants to the priesthood. And, thank God, subjects have come in encouraging numbers. In affording this glorious opportunity to worthy colored men to become priests of God and work unselfishly for the uplift and evangelization of their race, the Divine Word Fathers are following the mind of Christ and the expressed desire of Our Holy Father the Pope. Their efforts should be generously supported, not only by the hierarchy as a whole, but also by every loyal son and daughter of Holy Mother Church. This venture should not be the concern of these Fathers alone but should be of vital interest to every priest and every Catholic who sincerely desires the spread of Christ's Kingdom on earth."

At the end of the jubilee Mass His Excellency, the Bishop spoke a few congratulatory words encouraging Rev. Father Heffels and the Fathers of the Seminary in the work they are doing. Afterwards the jubilarian received the congratulations of the Reverend clergy and other friends in the rectory. In turn he tendered to his clerical guests a dinner at which he expressed to them his appreciation of their friendship and loyalty.

The following were present: Most Rev. R. O. Gerow, D. D.; Right Rev. Msgr. J. F. Prim; Very Rev. A. J. Gmelch; Very Rev. H. P. Patzelt; S. V. D.; Rev. James B. Albert, S. S. J.; Very Rev. Peter Keenan; Rev. J. M. Hager, C. M.; Rev. Harry P. Kane, S. S. J.; Rev. F. J. Baker, S. V. D.; Rev. Wm. J. Leech; Rev. John E. Prim; Rev. Francis Teblaff, S. V. D.; Rev. Patrick McAlpine; Rev. John Heondorop, S. V. D.; Rev. E. Brunner, S. S. J.; Rev. Denis O'Sullivan; Rev. Carl Wolf, S. V. D.; Rev. M. J. Costello; Rev. George Andree; Rev. J. Fitzpatrick; Rev. Joseph Schermesser; Rev. Clement Schneider; Rev. James McGlade; Rev. Leo F. Fahey; Rev. Fr. Quinn; Brother Peter; Rev. Theodore Koeller, S. V. D.; Rev. Jos. Murphy, S. V. D.; Rev. J. V. Hoffman; Rev. L. L. Shuler, S. V. D.; Rev. C. Hodapp, S. V. D.; Rev. John Gasper, S. V. D.; Rev. John Kemper, S. V. D.; Rev. Ignatius Scholl, S. V. D.; Rev. C. Baker, S. V. D.; Rev. Jos. Busch, S. V. D.

In the evening the student body and the faculty of the Seminary gathered in the auditorium to tender their felicitations to the Jubilarian.

THE GOLD STANDARD.

FRANCE and the United States are the only two great nations on the gold standard at the present time. Whether or not they will continue this policy will probably be decided during the present year.

One financial writer, Julius G. Berens, mentions as one of the probabilities of 1932 the increasing consideration of the advisability of maintaining the gold standard in the United States.

The last issue of the World's Work begins a short speculation of what the abandonment of the gold standard would mean with this sentence: "Wagers being laid at the time of writing offer odds of six to five that the United States will be off the gold standard within sixty days." Very few people have a definite idea of what would follow, except a considerable amount of inflation.

The above named magazine points out that England was forced off the gold standard by the run on the Bank of England and a continuing unfavorable trade balance. The editor points out that the first of these causes has already been felt in this country without our abandoning the gold standard, but the second may yet cause concern.

Our foreign trade is "rapidly disappearing," says World's Work, "and if we insist on adhering to the yellow standard we shall have to re-adjust our entire tariff structure and confine ourselves to domestic trade." Some sacrifices may be even too great for gold."

The killing of a federal law-enforcement agent and the serious wounding of another which occurred in the vicinity of Necaise Crossing, Hancock county, Monday night, is to be deplored. Even though the prohibition law is unpopular and its enactment has brought on more crime and drinking than ever, these men were engaged in the duties of their office and it is to the minions of the law that we must seek its enforcement, regardless of how despicable the work might appear to some. Disregard for the life of others is dangerous and must not only be curbed but such practice must cease, even though there might be two sides to Monday night's killing. Even then killing is not to be condoned.

Property owners and others of Clermont Harbor are to be congratulated on their public spirit which prompted the building of a public recreation pier, which is already in hand and will be accomplished long before the summer season will have arrived. Our coast points are of much interest to visitors, but without recreational facilities mean nothing. Clermont Harbor people are capitalizing on these fine coast resort possibilities and excursionists and others may easily be found hereafter where such facilities as those in progress of construction will have been completed.

Hancock county Board of Supervisors recognizing the necessity of a local hospital has shown its approval of the King's Daughters hospital and approved by an appropriation to help keep the institution going. It is well known, while the hospital is not self-supporting and unable to administer charity without organized support, it is well that the board comes to the rescue of this most noble objective of both city and county. In this way every tax-payer assists in a worthy cause and in so small a proportion to the individual and by no means a burden.

Hancock county courthouse premises might well serve as an example and incentive to those who will give intelligent application to the place to where home is located. It is one of the finest advertisements for this city, as well as for the county; a permanent demonstration of civic endeavor. Within a short while the courthouse grounds will be a riot of color and ending beauty as contrasted against the well-kept lawns.

Parents underestimate children and children overestimate parents.

Even borrowed books sometimes come home to roost, but not often.

It pays a business man to know the facts about his own business.

This is a wonderful time for a live business to advertise its way into the minds of the public.

One thing in favor of the art of Isaac Walton: you never hear of a fisherman being mistaken for a trout.

The main trouble with life is that by the time a man learns what it is about he has reached the time to die.

What's a war, more or less, to this country; don't we kill pedestrians by the thousands every month?

It is a long life that most of us lead and there is no use to risk it in a foolish effort to save a minute by running across the street in front of a speeding automobile.

Citizens of Bay St. Louis can help in many ways but one of the best means of bringing back better times is by spending wisely. This includes any repair jobs that will give employment to men out of work.

LEADING TO WAR.

THE danger of serious complications in the Far East is impressed upon us when we read that the United States and Great Britain are considering "joint economic pressure upon Japan to halt its invasion of China." The same United Press dispatch last week said that the "possibility of imposition of a boycott upon Japan has been discussed informally with Great Britain."

Readers who have made any effort to keep up with recent developments in the Japanese attitude towards China have no trouble in recognizing every evidence of an intention on the part of the Japanese to dominate and master the Chinese government, regardless of what the other nations in the world may think.

In view of this stern and unrelenting attitude on the part of Japan the other nations of the world have the option either to acquiesce in the Japanese dominance or to oppose it.

There is no use to misconstrue what it means when other nations, like the United States and Great Britain, begin an attempt to force Japan to alter her present policy. Talk of economic pressure, embargoes and boycotts should not mislead anyone. It is the initiation of a policy that inevitably leads to war unless one side or the other capitulates prior to such a stage.

In the present instance, when one considers the temper of the Japanese government as expressed in its recent acts, there is no reason to assume or to expect that its policy will be abandoned. Therefore, the United States should decide whether its stake in the Far East is worth a war before it embarks upon a course which probably means nothing less.

Well, boys and girls, and grown folks, the year 1932 is one-twelfth past, and the big idea is what have you done with the year, thus far?

LOCAL FEDERATED MUSIC CLUBS.

THE Echo carried a news story last week where smaller music clubs over the city and in Waveland had been organized and State federated, under the direct auspices of the splendid work conducted by Mrs. George R. Rea, third vice president of the federated clubs of Mississippi.

Mrs. Rea was the prime mover and has been one of the active and successful lights in the organization and continuance of the Schubert Music Club of Bay St. Louis, that has functioned in this city the past few years, given each year at least one major recital, to the pleasure and uplift of music lovers of this coast community. The work of the music club has been noteworthy and was federated with the State clubs.

This speaks well for the city. It is both praiseworthy and noteworthy and for this reason reference to the work is here made.

The Schubert Music Club is one of the integral organizations of this city. It represents some of the best talent and thought of Bay St. Louis and vicinity and the fact that it has continued for the past several years is the best argument for its success.

Recently the club gave a sacred concert at one of the local halls, on which occasion a large number present were drawn from the elite of this section. The program not only gave evidence of variety and excellent selection but displayed good voices and gave evidence not only of study but of thorough training. The club is one of study and its success is an accomplishment for our community life not to be lost sight of, but to be remembered and encouraged.

Most people spend too much time worrying about the troubles of other people.

TO HELP THE HOME OWNERS.

THE proposal that the National Government set up a financial agency to facilitate credit on homes has met with considerable endorsement. H. S. Kissel, president of a national association of real estate boards, says:

"I am not speaking for builders, or for banks," said Mr. Kissel. "I am speaking in support of this bill from the standpoint of the relief it will afford to thousands upon thousands of small home owners who have been trying to pay for their homes by monthly payments."

"Many of them can and should be saved. But they can not be saved from foreclosure unless there are funds available so that mortgage holders will feel free to release funds."

"They are not renewing the loans in many instances, and when a mortgage becomes due and the individual can not find a place to have it renewed, he suffers. There is no reason why the Federal Government should not lend its help in such an instance. Commerce and industry have a great reservoir of credit in the Federal Reserve System to which their bankers can go; the private home owner can not do that for the agencies with which he deals have no source of new funds and credit is dried up at this time."

The optimist is the man who knows that 1932 will be the best year he ever had in business.

WHITE REPUBLICANS RECOGNIZED.

IT IS NOTED, according to dispatches from Washington to the press during the past few days that white Republicans will be recognized in Mississippi; that Lamont Rowlands, leader of the "Lily White" Republican faction of Mississippi, said that President Hoover had assured him of his group's delegates to the Republican convention would be seated at the Chicago convention this summer.

The "Black and Tan" Republican group of the State, led by Dr. S. D. Redmond, negro lawyer and physician, has been attempting to secure recognition of their respective delegation to the convention.

This aspect of the Mississippi representation and recognition is not only desirable but pleasing to the State at large, regardless of party affiliation and is noted with satisfaction rather than with apprehension had it been otherwise.

Mr. Rowlands, residing just a stone's throw from the Hancock-Pearl River county line, has served this recognized faction in the past and the news he brings on his return home from Washington is hailed as a victory. His services as referee have been above reproach.

VIEWS OF OUR NEWS

By Chicagoan

A Review of the News of Last Week's Echo.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 2.—Was it perhaps because this is the season in which the groundhog is supposed to emerge from his winter's retreat to ascertain whether or not his body will cast its shadow on the earth, that Echo readers were invited by Mr. John T. Meyers to register their impressions of the shadow of "Chicagoan" as it is seen in Bay St. Louis?

I freely admit that I'm pleased by Mr. Meyers' suggestion that I have so interested my readers that they have formed mental pictures of me, even as I have of the men and women who for more than year have moved before me each week as I read the Echo. The letters written in response to Mr. Meyers' invitation, to which I now add my own, will interest me greatly, and I agree to announce the winner of this "contest."

That skilled painters of word portraits walk on St. Stanislaus Campus, is made quite evident to the readers of "Campus Glimpses," a feature in the college news that has appeared periodically during the past weeks. And I wonder if I have cast any such shadow in Bay St. Louis as did the chap with the "Rocky Mountain" face and "bovine mental equipment" who was described last week.

There's a story going the rounds of newspapers lately to the effect that hitch-hikers are carrying banners which read, "Give me a ride or I'll vote for Hoover." Whether the face of the approaching motorist lights up with a smile, or whether he frowns and steps on the gas, depends of course, on his political convictions. But sad, I know, are the faces of the Echo readers who failed to heed last week's warning to pay their poll taxes before February 1st. Regardless of party, they will be unable to vote for Hoover or any one else. Depriving a man of the right of franchise is one of the punishments meted out to the perpetrators of criminal acts. Yet some will bring the punishment on themselves, and all for the sake of a few dollars. $2.00 which the valuable little receipt would have cost.

Here I see faces that beam with happy and satisfied smiles. They belong to the charitable men and women of Bay St. Louis who have been filling the food baskets which last week's paper tells us are placed in the grocery stores of the town. "Keep up the noble work," applauds the Echo speaking for its grateful readers as well as for itself. "Continue to put your mite in these baskets and you will be blessed, for you are doing the will of God—"Feeding the Hungry."

Not so concerned with my physical appearance, as with their good work for the community are the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club, which last week took steps to prevent the removal of the Western Union office from Bay St. Louis. Eternal vigilance is the watchword of the town's welfare. But why my praise? The citizens of Bay St. Louis undoubtedly pay due respect to their civic organizations. And they must also have great pity in their hearts for the business men, if such there be, who find it impossible to add to the efforts of those who strive with might and main for the betterment of their town.

"Course the High School girls of S. J. A. are writers of ability and letters from them would be entertaining to me sure. But they've been so busy with their rehearsal of the plays they presented Friday, and now they must get deep into the work of their last semester. Perhaps fewer high school graduates will enter colleges next year than formerly. So the S. J. A. seniors realize that this is perhaps their last opportunity to secure scholastic training before they are flung headlong into the difficult... and somewhat mad... college of life. May my young friends make the most of the remaining months of the school year, both from the standpoint of pleasure and profit. This is a semester they'll remember for the rest of their lives. May those memories be joyous ones!"

Goodness, goodness! Some of you may think that I have quite an opinion of myself and that if called upon would draw my own picture accordingly. But I assure you all that I haven't the reasons for being puffed up that that Mr. Cox has, the gentleman, I mean whose affections the Mississippi Supreme Court says were worth $15,000. But then the two lady principals placed widely varying values on the gentleman's worth, so you see, even in such a case there's a chance for a difference of opinion.

Speaking of values, it's one thing to serve as head of a local board of education for ten years, doing your duty in every way as Mr. Donald Marshall has done, and then it's another to learn that your good work has been so generally appreciated as last week's Echo plainly shows. Mr. Marshall's loss, May I hazard the guess that the regret of the school board and the citizenry occasioned by Mr. Marshall's retirement does not exceed the regret in that gentleman's own heart.

CURRENT COMMENT

PNEUMONIA IS DANGEROUS FOE.

The pneumonia season is upon us, according to the Illinois Department of Health, more than half the reported cases of that disease occurring from January to April. Infants and those above the age of 55 are hardest hit, but lowering of physical strength, colds, coughs, and a variety of infectious diseases pave the way for pneumonia and render all subject to its ravages. The report embodies a sentence which is easy to remember and worth keeping in mind. "Pneumonia is a bully who lords over the weak."

WHAT FIVE CENTS ELECTRIC POWER WILL ACCOMPLISH.

The Department of Commerce thinks that the world has spent about forty billion dollars in ten years in the erection of houses. How did the home builders get on in regard to making the new quarters cozy and convenient? Not so badly, according to the report of a Georgia power company. Its figures show that five cents will provide twelve hours of home entertainment, cook a meal for a family of five, light a lamp for twenty hours, or make the breakfast coffee from one Sunday morning to the next.

THE ROOSEVELTS HAVE IT ABSOLUTELY!

It is now necessary to be more explicit than to state that "Governor Roosevelt" says this and so. Franklin has been the Chief Executive of New York for some time. Theodore has lately been made Governor of the Philippines. Considering both political parties, the Roosevelts are doing pretty well in the matter of keeping the name in the public eye, and are giving the celebrated Adams family a close run.

NAMING BABIES AND RESULT.

New York parents have christened one of their offspring "Depression." Naming children lays a burden on those who have the work to do. Philadelphia authorities used to apply no foundations the surname of the policeman who brought them in, employing as a given name, the name of the street in which they were found. The practice had to be given up when it promised to send an infant out into the world as "Passamaquoddy McGettigan."

"MOST BEAUTIFUL" WOMEN PASSED 30TH BIRTHDAY.

All members of a group of women selected by an expert as the most beautiful in America, had passed their thirtieth birthday; and the marriage of a lady in St. Louis has taken place, after an engagement of thirty-five years. A few seasons over sweet sixteen do not necessarily count. Even silver threads among the gold are not an affliction.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE IN NON-STOP FLIGHT.

Mexico has a new law by which a person can get a divorce in one day. It seems that it would be possible to be married and free again within forty-eight hours. The framer of the law is famous for a non-stop flight.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

Governor Conner's first thing to stare him in the face, was the million deficit wished on him by the previous legislature and administration. Everybody is jumping up and down offering sundry methods for the proper means to take care of this deficit without taxing anybody. This can't be done. Some means must be devised to raise this amount before the government can start to functioning. A mass of people blame the previous legislature and Bilbo for this state of affairs. The public should be fair to the former Governor and the former legislature. George Washington said he "did it with his hatchet." The voters of Mississippi placed these debts upon themselves by their votes and petitions to their representatives that were made,
which was in excess of the budget that was formerly out and we blame them when any pet measure was suggested that was beneficial to any particular session that was not put over. We petitioned for more and larger schools, improved hospitals, charity wards and various hospitals and God knows what else and we are now suffering the penalty.
There was possibly a waste and extravagance both in the state, county and municipal affairs and when there was no recreation, everything was pretty, but when reverses come we then blame some one with it. Doubtless, if Bilbo had had his way we would have had a larger bonded debt than now stares us in the face. All these bonds were saddled on us by our votes and not by Bilbo. There has been a hue and cry for economy in the income administration. The first thing to appeal to the taxpayers are requests for $8,000 to $25,000 to repair the governor's mansion. Dunbar Rowland, keeper of the Archives, wants his salary increased from $7,500 to $12,000 an increase of $4,500 in the contingent fund of the government. This is exclusive of the salary of $7,500. The three railroad commissioners ask that their salary be raised from $4,500 to $7,200. The state treasurer wants salary increased from $3,500 to $5,000. E. C. Mc-Ginnis, commissioner of agriculture, wants the small sum of $8,000 increase. Doubtless all these sought for increases and appropriations will hit the rocks when it comes to the appropriation committee.

Who should men in public offices immediately after their election seek increases in salaries, which were fixed at the time of their running and they knew what they would receive.
Last fall most of them wiped the perspiration from their brows and sold "the dear people" how much they would like to serve them and that they were all for economy and retrenchment. Under the present depressed conditions and the financial straits the state is in we think it would be folly to increase any one's salary. There should be a retrenchment, rather than an increase—

GOOD SCOUTS

Boy Scout leaders this week are emphasizing the code of ethics and the necessity for adhering strictly to the scout oath at the convention
now in session at Jackson.

Boys who are Scouts are urged to set examples for the other kids to follow. Mississippi and South Carolina are low among South ern states in scouting. There are only 196 troops and 3,727 members in Mississippi but the organization is growing.

Scouting builds better boys and things every adult should strive to accomplish.

Scouting is the following answer to the question—What Is A Boy?

"He is a person who is going to carry on what you have started."
"He is to sit right where you are sitting and attend when you are talking to these things you think are so important."

"You may adopt all the policies please, but how they will be carried out depends upon him."

"Even if you make league laws treasures, he will have to manage them the senate, and occupy your place
the supreme bench."

"He will assume control of cities, states and nation."

"He is going to move in and take over your prisons, churches, schools, universities, and corporations."

"All your work is going to be judged and praised or condemned by him."

"Your reputation and your future are in his hands."

"All your work is for him and the fate of the nation and of humanity is in his hands."

"So it might be well to pay him
some attention."

THE ECHO'S COOKING CLASS

Pie is the most popular dessert, especially with the male members of the family. When making pie be sure your crust is light and flaky; a good crust insures full appreciation for the filling. A good pie brightens up the dullest dinner.

Raisin-Apple Pie.

3-4 cup water,
4 apples,
1/2 cup sugar,
1 cup raisins,
1/2 cup walnut meat,
Grated rind of 1 lemon,
1 tablespoon lemon juice,
1 teaspoon butter.
Cut apples in eighths and cook with water and sugar until transparent, then drain. Add raisins, walnuts and lemon and butter. Bake in moderate oven between crusts or in strips of pastry across. Serve with or without whipped cream.

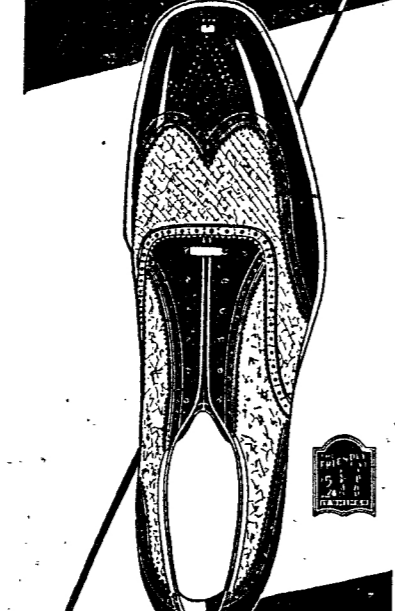

Marshmallow Banana Pie

Bake a pastry shell. Cool and cover bottom with sliced bananas. Cover with a filling made of 1 cup cream, whipped and 1 cup of diced marshmallows. Garnish with sliced bananas.

Cranberry and Raisin Pie
2 tablespoons cornstarch,
1 1/2 cup hot water,
1 cup sugar,
3-4 teaspoon salt,
1 cup seedless raisins,
2 cups cranberries,
1 tablespoon butter.
Mix cornstarch, sugar and salt. Add hot water and cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Add raisins, cranberries and butter. Line pan with pastry, brush bottom with melted shortening. Add filling. Over the top arrange strips of pastry. Bake in oven 450 degrees for 20 minutes.

Jelly Pie
2 cups milk,
2 egg whites,
5 tablespoons instant tapioca,
4 tablespoons sugar,
4 teaspoon salt,
2 egg yolks beaten,
1/2 cup shredded coconut,
1/4 teaspoon vanilla,
1 cup currant or apple jelly.
Scald milk in a double boiler, add tapioca mixed with sugar and salt. Cook until tapioca is transparent, stirring constantly. Remove from fire and pour on beaten yolks. Return to double boiler and cook until mixture thickens. Add coconut and vanilla. Cool, fill baked pie shell with mixture and spread a layer of jelly about 1-8 inch thick. Fold 2 tablespoons of sugar in the beaten egg whites and spread over jelly. Brown in oven and serve cold.

THE TALE OF AN OPEN WINDOW

If there's anything Irving Fisher of 7309 University avenue, Chicago, doesn't like it's the night air.

Early Wednesday morning, Mr. Fisher was awakened by a blast of the dreaded atmosphere, and he immediately arose to investigate its source.

As he stumbled into the hallway, he ran smack into a big negro sneak thief who had gained entrance by opening a window through which also came the breath of the night air.

Fisher's wife and son were aroused by the cries of the head of the household and they rushed to his assistance. It was a game of push and pull for a few moments; Fisher pulled at the colored prowler; wife and son pushed.

Father was overruled, and the negro was pushed out the window from which he fell twelve feet to the sidewalk, landed on his feet and hurried away.

Carefully closing the window to exclude the night air, Mr. Fisher returned to his slumbers.

WORK AND PLAY AT S. J. A.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS GRATE- FUL TO MRS. VAL YATES AND OTHER FRIENDS.

The High School girls realize that they could never have "put over" the plays as well as they did without the valuable assistance of the many friends in Bay St. Louis who cooperated so beautifully with them. They feel in the first place that the success of the plays is in a great measure due to Mrs. Val Yates who spared neither time, work nor effort in coaching the girls and helping them later to get the proper settings for their three plays. To Mrs. Yates the girls again, wish to say a hearty "thank you."

To the St. Stanislaus Band, which furnished the music during the intermissions and before the rise of the curtain, the girls are most grateful. They also realize what the "proper background" can do for a play and they are therefore most thankful too, to the many friends who were instrumental in providing them with suitable furnishings.

They give a special vote of thanks to Mr. Ernest Richards who was indefatigable in his efforts to provide them with the "cyclorama" which was sent through the courtesy of the Saenger Amusement Co. They also wish to thank Mr. Heitzman and the crew of men who put up the curtain so quickly and so well. Finally they wish to extend their unbounded gratitude to the following who provided them with furnishings for the stage: The Bay Furniture Co., Bay Mercantile Co., Southern Bell Telephone Co., Lorraine Flower Shop, Mr. George Horton, Mrs. Val Yates, Mrs. Ed. Carriere, Miss Mary Perkins, Mrs. C. C. McDonald, Ms. Walter Gex, Jr., Mrs. Nix, Mrs. Partridge, Mrs. (Dr.) Horton, Miss Alice Camors.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAYS GO OVER BIG.

Splendid Crowd in Spite of Rain. All who witnessed the "three one-act plays" presented by the High School girls last Friday night are unanimous in their version of the performances—"they were splendid!" the girls took off their parts "beautifully," the settings for the plays were the prettiest yet seen at S. J. A., etc.

It would be difficult to single out any "stars" among the girls who figured in the plays, each and every one of the players acquitted herself admirably of her part so as to be deserving of much commendation.

In the Happy Day, Melodie Nix, as an elderly matron, Louise Carriere as a younger member of fashionable set, Genie Harper as the lovely young bride to be, and Frances Vincent as the simple dressmaker played their parts faultlessly. Ann Partridge need not tell us any more that she can't act, we'll know better now—she made a perfect society reporter. Vincennes Favalora and Alma Le Jeune each brought the house down with their interpretation of the country relatives of the Marlowe family.

The "Red Parasol," proved a most pleasing little comedy. Catherine Scalfide was a scream as a lady of color. Jane Juden done up as a stout Irishwoman, also distinguished herself while Anna Mae Quintini and Phyllis Kidd impersonated the twins very nicely. Elise Lizana, Almie Hauser, Lorraine Quintini were splendid in their respective parts.

Last but not by any means least came "Gone Abroad" a charming exposure of the wiles and schemes of society climbers! As one of our seniors described it with quotations from the play—"It was a 'spanking' success or maybe you would rather say a 'smacking' success, at any rate we know no one was 'shocked' at the performance, for the four girls who were responsible for it—Misses Delta Lizana, Alice Camors, Joyce Wolf and Theresa Linam charmed all with the rendition of their parts.

In spite of the heavy rain a splendid crowd attended the performance which lessened the Gym Debt Fund forty five dollars.

S. J. A. TO MEET BILOXI SATURDAY NIGHT.
The Gold Jays will put on a week of real hard practicing before meeting the Biloxi High School girls in a game which is to take place in Biloxi this Saturday night. The game will be a preliminary to the S. S. C. vs. Biloxi game. The Biloxi girls are one among the strongest contenders for the Coast title. For the last two years the Gold Jays have been defeated by the Biloxi girls in close clean, well fought games. However, we are all hoping that 1932 will tell another tale. How about it Gold Jays.

BI-CENTENNIAL GEORGE WASHINGTON AND FACTS CONNECTED WITH EVENT

Life of Nation's First President—Facts of Interest About Independence Hall at Washington—Liberty Bell
And Original Furniture.

In every section of the United States this year will be held exercises in commemoration of George Washington, who lead the colonial forces to victory in the conflict for freedom against Great Britain, and who later became the nation's first executive.

Historians have chronicled the achievements of our first president and incidents important in history during his life. Poets have sung of his valor. Possibly every resident of Bay St. Louis knows in a general way the general facts about our first president, and the happenings which made following the Revolutionary war for the building up of the world's greatest nation.

Everybody knows in a general way that which Independence Hall played in those days. But how many can give specific facts about the building, and dates connected with its history, and what it is like at the present time.

Just now when our attention is directed to the life of the nation's first president, perhaps it is not amiss to gather a little information about the building and dates connected with its history, and what it is like at the present time.

Independence Hall is located on Chestnut street between Fifth and Sixth streets, on the north side of Independence Square, Philadelphia, Pa.

Erection began 1732 but was not completed until 1747. It was built by the Province of Pennsylvania as a Colonial State House and first occupied in 1736 while still unfinished.

Here the Assembly, the Declaration of Independence was adopted and the Supreme Court and the Governor's Council of the Province of Pennsylvania.

Here Continental Congress held its sessions. Here Washington was appointed Commander-in-Chief of the Continental Army on a motion made by John Adams. Here the Declaration of Independence was adopted and read from its steps to the assembled crowds in front. The Convention of 1787, which framed the Constitution, was also held here.

In 1776, at that time, hung the famous Liberty Bell which was vigorously and ceaselessly rung on the 4th day of July, 1776, the occasion of the proclamation of the Declaration of Independence, adopted in its final form on the 4th day of July. The crack in the bell, which has become famous and at times threatened to grow more serious, made its appearance July 8th, 1835, when tolled as the body of Chief Justice Marshall was being taken from Philadelphia to Virginia, his native state. The bell was removed from the tower and is now displayed in a conspicuous place in the entrance to Independence Hall.

Independence Hall is at present an historic museum in which hangs a replica of the Declaration of Independence and about its walls may be seen pictures of its signers.

Many original pieces of furniture made famous by association and interior architecture, have been carefully preserved.

Stone County Votes For Open Range And Pearl River May Also

Stone county voted to invalidate the state-wide stock law, in so far as the county is concerned, in a special election Saturday. Only 83 voted to retain the state law, while 436 voted for open range.

Ballots in a special stock law election in Pearl River county Saturday had not been counted Monday morning, but returns from the Pica-yune box indicated an overwhelming vote in favor of open range. The Pica-yune results were: 62 for open range, four against open range and for the state stock law.

He Never Heard of Railroads

George Washington, born 200 years ago this month, encouraged the development of interior transportation and himself organized and headed a company for the improvement of the Potomac River.

Upon his death in 1799 the United States was the beneficiary of nearly two centuries of highway and waterway transportation. Yet commerce was meager and difficult, the population was a bare 5,000,000, and that was along the seacoast.

Thirty years after Washington's death the first railroad in America was built. In the ensuing century our population has grown to 125,000,000, and our vast domain has become an organized and efficient economic unit.

When we give thanks, as we should, for the progress made since Washington's day, let us not forget the vital part played therein by our railroads.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

Lamont Rowlands De- nies Republican Control In State To Change

Rumors that control of federal patronage would be shifted to the "black and tan" faction of Mississippi's Republican party, have been dispelled by Lamont Rowlands, of Pica-yune, head of the "lily-white" group, and present distributor of federal patronage.

Rowlands, returning home from Washington, said to the Associated Press that the administration had announced that his faction would continue in favor, and that he had been assured that the "lily-white" delegation to the Republican national convention in June would be recognized.

The "black and tans," led by Dr. S. D. Redmond, negro physician and lawyer of Jackson, have been fighting to regain control of patronage and to secure recognition of a proposed delegation to the convention.

Mr. Rowlands, who has been referee in Mississippi for patronage work, continue as heretofore, his ability and fairness being recognized by the powers that be.

Street Corner Scene at Night; San Antonio, Texas.

By JOHN T. MEYERS
(For The Sea Coast Echo)

The Sunday night throngs move gaily about the downtown streets, clinging proudly on the arm of their favorite beaux, stroll past to join the chattering, laughing, carefree, procession. Gorgeously gowned and bejeweled matrons and their escorts alight from limousines, quickly vanishing into theater or hotel entrance.

On the corner a Salvation Army group are holding a religious street service. A sweet-faced lassie in her Army costume sings a hymn to the accompaniment of jingling tamborines. A few spectators linger nearby. But the wave of humanity surges past, occasionally tossing a coin offering that strikes the big, bass drum with a resonant thud.

Just off the main street there floats the sound of jazz music from a Taxi-Dance place above. Cymbals clash in barbaric jungle tempo. A piccolo sends forth plaintive wails as the trombone blares defiantly, contrasting the moans of the saxophone.

Amid this tawdry atmosphere is to be found a pathetic creature of city life. She is the dancing girl pander furnished by these pay-as-you-dance halls. Sex appeal is her biggest asset and claim for popularity among the male patrons. Although of tender years, her voice is coarse and hard... her speech dotted with jargon of the underworld. Beneath the thickly coated makeup of her "baby doll" face are eyes that have peered deeply into life's sordid experiences.

Very often, she has become the intimate associate of racketeers, gamblers, bootleggers, and other police characters. Unlike her more favored sisters clinging to protecting arms of escorts on the street below, the dance hall girl has the cards stacked against her as she dances boldly down the Primrose path. Her final role is oftentimes as a gunman's "Moll"—or worse.

A few hours hence the streets will be deserted save for the lone policeman making a round of his beat. The warning bounce of his club upon the sidewalk will break the uncanny stillness of the wee hours. Like a darkened theater after the audience and actors have retired, so well the night's scenes become ghosts of a past performance.

STANISLAUS COLLEGE ECHOES

CAMPUS GLIMPSES.

Peculiar habits attach themselves to eccentric people, but in this case the author has found an exception. I have seen drunkards by the keg fulls, done our daily newspapers, and crazy people by the Jackson falls—but never in all my life have I ever seen a "yeast-drinker" yet I am told that such a person does exist.

Short dark, well groomed, pleasant and friendly, speaking with a slight accent and our daily newspapers, and brother-in-law by his more intimate friends—he walks unmolested the campus of Stanislaus.

Why he is a "yeast drinker" or questions relating to that effect, yours truly is unable to answer, let it suffice to say that class '32 is the proud possessor of a member who indulges in the unheard of sport of draining the dregs or as it is politely put—consumes the yeast.

"Tausers Tips," "Oil in the Can" and numerous other columns which appear in our daily newspapers, and that lead the ordinary race track fan to "dope" a certain winner are far more uncertain and unreliable than a certain member of Class '32, who, by nature a turfman, and said to say, denies it vehemently.

Slight of build, with a drawing accent, which so charms his listeners—he does not appear, to my mind as an ardent follower of the turf.

He resides near the Jefferson race track and is often seen, binoculars in one hand, and "dope sheet" in the other, viewing a neck and neck finish of the race—and as always his horse wins.

He and a few of his cronies assemble every morning to pick the winners, and as expected, our friend, whose name I refrain from mentioning, says "I told you so"—indeed, so remarkable is his success in this line of endeavor, a fellow class mate of his, dubbed all of his "tallying" as "Chubby's Turf Tips" and boys take it from me—there's a baby that knows his horses—you can't go wrong if you follow "Chubby's Turf Tips."

BOXING.

The Stanislaus boxers took the long end of the score against Kiln Monday night eight to two. All ten bouts and even the exhibition between Toledo and Jimmy Filkins was a humdinger. Both teams showed training and both were in good condition.

Frank Fagan started hostilities with Wolf of Kiln; this scrap went three rounds to a decision. Of the Referee and Judges, which was awarded to Fagan. We believe that Frank was just a little too much for the sorrel top.

Pete Burquies took the first k. o. of the season when he battered Seal with less than a minute and a half of the round. We really believe that Burquies scared that poor boy to death; most of us did not recognize Pete at all, at all—his fighting stance is something that is original and should be copyrighted.

Captain Motty took on a tartar in one Goss from the Kiln; Motty went the full route but was rather helpless throughout as the Goss boy was a wee bit too experienced. This bout went to Kiln easily; Garriga, the pride of

The fight started at a tip-tap on Garriga's jaw and bread basket with such telling effect that Garriga refused to leave his corner at the opening of the second round. Trepani was taken for a ride by Mauffray of the Kiln and this was the second and last win for the Kiln. Edmond Blaize, Flink, Hobbs and Castro won their bouts rather handily. Blaize winning via the towel; Castro winning by a clean knock-out. Hobbs and F

VISIT TO OLDEST CITY IN AMERICA IS INTERESTING SUBJECT AS TOLD HERE

Correspondent of The Sea Coast Echo Tells of Stately Palms, Tangled Jungles and Drives Along Shores— Cathedral of St. Augustine and Other Places That Give Atmosphere.

By MRS. IDA SCHWEPPE
San Antonio, Texas.

WHEN spring has passed and summer heat is creating an urge for the great outdoors, then nothing will gratify us until different environment and scenery dominate our interest which offers refreshing change of the boredom of our surroundings. In this state of mind I planned a trip, not only carefully selecting the known beauty spots of different states, but also laying particular stress on those connected with our past history.

One can make himself master of time and place with the modern convenient method of travel by automobile, finding everywhere good roads and connecting highways.

I will confess that every moment, every inch of the journey delighted me, but one truthfully gave me that thrill of enthusiasm as St. Augustine did. For one hailing from Texas, Florida has a lasting fascination with its peaceful, picturesque, romantic settings. The soil so velvety soft and strangely of color that reflects shades before unknown to me. While constantly in view of the broad placid ocean which seems so mild, so benevolent. Then the woolly dunes, the stately palms the dense tangled jungles alternating with soft level drive along the shore where smooth salt-tinted breezes stimulate fancy into a state of expectancy. The dream of sweet forgetfulness and happiness is visioned in the groups of bathers along the beaches, which are constantly gently washed by the rolling waves. But the measure of delight gripped me when we reached and toured St. Augustine. Immediately I felt the ship, the similarity with San Antonio, Texas, particularly while we drove thru the old part of the city, because I am fortunate enough to possess a San Antonio map which setting as a strategic settlement along the river with the towers of San Fernando Cathedral locating the center of the city. To be sure the last century has changed St. Augustine into a metropolis and some of the modern buildings are magnificent and impressive in their excellent architecture, still none will ever have the interest, the charm and admiration of the tourist as those on the narrow streets of medieval type with the overhanging porticoes—barred windows and entrances directly opening into the streets. The oldest house is of primitive construction built of coquina, which seems to harden through exposure to sun and wind; has small latched doors and small rooms with floors of coquina. It has served through ages as a place for high officials and is now religiously preserved by a historical society. The arrangement of rooms is very quaint, so is the winding stairs which lead to a small up chamber.

I was much interested in the odd and characteristic churches, chapels, and cathedrals; particularly in the oldest one "Cathedral of St. Augustine" with its open bell tower of the same type as that of our San Juan chapel. Then, for one who truly admires and venerates the Alamo with its graceful lines, it seemed unbelievable that almost an exact duplicate exists in the Chapel of Nuestra Señora de la Leche. However, this fact may be explained by the fact that both structures were built by the Spaniards at about the same period in history.

In wandering through the unique city one soon reaches the old city gate. Looking through it one sees the narrow cobbled stoned thoroughfare of George the Saint, bordered on either side by business houses. Nearby is another landmark, the National Cemetery which furnishes a touch of historic lore. On Magnolia Avenue is the famous Fountain of Youth draped in Spanish moss suspended from trees of century growth. Every visitor is shown Fort San Marco which for centuries was the strongest fortification in the new world, thought perhaps now too obsolete for modern warfare. It is built of coquina rock with formidable walls. This fort has stood through many wars, but is still in excellent condition. It was founded in 1638 and built by a band of Algonquian Indians captured in war and put to work on it, where, as peons, they and their descendants labored for sixty years. Negro slaves, Mexican convicts, Spanish soldiers and King's workmen were also used as laborers in constructing these massive walls of defense.

San Marco, like the Alamo, was a place of refuge for the inhabitants of St. Augustine when the town was pillaged and burnt by the English in 1685 under command of Sir Francis Drake, again in 1703 under command of Governor Moore and again in 1725 under command of Colonel Parmer, and once more in 1740 under command of Oglethorpe, after which it was finally completed to its present state in 1756.

The plan of the fort in a measure resembles that of the Alamo, with its square court yard, its strongly built-in prison cells with only one heavily ironbarred opening which often times provided an entrance to a dark cell into which not a ray of sunshine could ever penetrate. Another point in which the history of St. Augustine and that of San Antonio is identical, is that it also was ruled under six flags.

In looking into the history of the oldest city of America, it is hard to comprehend the flight of time, especially when it relates to remote events. To most of us, history dates are more or less empty symbols to which we attach little significance. The fact that St. Augustine was already an old city before the Pilgrims landed, is rarely considered in comparing the antiquity of the two events. To be exact, St. Augustine had been in existence fifty-five years when the Mayflower landed on the shores of New England. For more than a century this little settlement had been struggling with difficulties and hardships when Sir Francis Drake burnt and pillaged it.

To one who is interested in research of history, I recommend a study of the founding and struggle of this fortified city bordering on the shores of the deep blue Atlantic.

L. & N. R. R. CONTINUES TO ADVERTISE THE GULF COAST

Advice has been received by I. V. Colly, local passenger agent, Biloxi, Miss., that the L. & N. will continue to advertise the Gulf Coast, and have placed ads with the following magazines, which are carrying special articles about the Gulf Coast.

Sports Field, January and February, and the Sportsman's Digest, of Cincinnati, January and February issues, which has a wide circulation among sportsmen in the northern states and a circulation of 85,000, the name of this publication will be changed to Game Stories and will carry an article on "Fishing" on the Gulf Coast in their January issue.

We have been doing considerable advertising throughout the north as has been our custom each winter for years past and we trust that this will bear fruit. The weather so far throughout the north has been abnormally mild, and thus may be reflected in the volume of travel, but we hope that this will not have any serious effect on it. The Chambers Agency has also prepared and sent out Gulf Coast news stories to the various northern newspapers, they were successful in having a number of the citizens to publish similar articles last year, and we hope will be equally as fortunate this season, which we hope will attract a good many winter visitors to the Gulf Coast during the winter season.

I Donohoo wrote these lines, which are in a way the columnist's justification: "The wisest men the world ever knew Have never dreamed it treason To rest a bit—and just a bit And balance up their reason; To laugh a bit—and chaff a bit And joke a bit in season."

ESTIMABLE LADY PASSES AWAY AND GOES TO REWARD

Resident of Clermont Harbor Passes Away at New Orleans Late Friday Night

Mrs. (Capt.) John B. Bachino, nee Marie E. Tulaque, formerly of New Orleans, but for the last few years resident of Clermont Harbor, died at Touro Infirmary, New Orleans, at 10:45 Friday night, in her 66th year. Mrs. Bachino recently underwent an operation, and while she was quite ill, following the ordeal, she had passed the crisis and was supposed to be on the high road to recovery. However, Friday night, while the devoted husband had returned to Clermont that evening, with the satisfaction that his wife was showing marked improvement, her condition took sudden change for the worse, and she passed away.

The funeral took place Sunday afternoon from the funeral parlors of P. J. McMahon & Sons, out Canal street, with services at St. Anthony's church, and interment at Greenwood cemetery, the funeral of the largest seen in the city and floral tributes apparently without number.

In addition to her husband, who had devoted his very life to his companion, the deceased is survived by one son, Forest Delmonde, by a marriage early in life, and a number of grandchildren.

Mrs. Bachino was a woman of rare qualities. She was a lover of her home, devoted to her friends and a woman whose christian virtues were many. Her passing away removes one who will be missed not only in the family circle, but as well by that band of friends and acquaintances whose love and esteem she enjoyed. Her charities were many and her practice of the Catholic faith was consistent and always with an active zeal. It can truly be said that a good woman has gone to her reward.

Capt. Bachino, the bereaved husband, is well known in New Orleans and along the Mississippi Gulf Coast, and to whom goes much sympathy in his great sorrow.

"HELL DIVERS" AN EXCITING AND THRILLING AIR PICTURE

At A. & G. Theater Sunday And Monday, February 7th and 8th.

Hold tight your seats! Here they come!

Wallace Beery. He rules with his fists—but he's got a heart, and Clark Gable, America's new hero—at his handsomest best, with Conrad Nagel, Cliff Edwards, Dorothy Jordan, Marjorie Rameau and John Miljan. The greatest cast of years in the new wonder picture, produced in cooperation with the U. S. Navy, "Hell Divers." The new thrill from the skies.

Excitement ahead! Thrill piles on thrill! You've never seen the like of it. George Hill, director of "The Big House" has created an even greater entertainment than his prison epic. And Wallace Beery brings to you a character "Windy," that you'll remember along with his "Butch" and his "Slaughterhouse." Hold tight to your seats. We're off!

A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Triumph!

THE UNEMPLOYED.

I sing my song to a teeming throng.
To the millions unemployed,
Who scorn to shirk, who are wild for work,
And who face a future void.

From rise of sun till the day is done,
They beg for the boon to toil,
From door to door, they pause, they implore,
With seldom a thought of spoil.

Their children cry and their wives stand by,
With barely a loaf of bread.
Small feet are bare and the clothes they wear
Are tattered from foot to head.

And babies wail as their bottles fail,
Their mothers' breasts are dry,
The young and the old fear the winter's cold
As the gaunt days stagger by.

The grim sights come and their lips are dumb;
But their thoughts grow black like the night:
"Does a God of Love still reign above?
Has wrong o'er-mastered right?"

Stout hearts grow faint and many a saint
Now trembles with doubt and dread;
And the primal beast in man released
With jungle lust, roams red.

Wise men of state, the good and great,
Turn back this crimson threat.
Shall leopards leap while statemen sleep?
There's time for succor yet.

With plenty stored for every board
To groan beneath its weight,
Must any child, with hunger wild,
Drive fathers to this fate?

Must any back for clothing lack?
Great Gods of hosts, ally these ghosts!
Provide, O Lord, provide!

I sing my song to the teeming throng
To the millions unemployed.
If we bravely please, we can bring to these Fair work for a future void.

COMMENT ON SPORTS BY SHERIDAN

THEY WILL SIGN MAY AFFECT HORNSBY TILDEN BEATS NUSSEIN BAER READY NOW ODDS AND ENDS.

Baseball fans need not worry much about the stars not signing for the coming season. The chances are that they have as much sense as the average citizen and that, therefore, they know that some cuts are necessary. Of course, there may be occasions where some management has tried to take advantage of a player, but, generally, you will see the boys in line when the umpires shout, "play ball."

The death of William Wrigley, owner of the Chicago Cubs, may vitally affect the fortunes of Rogers Hornsby, great player, all admit, but somewhat of a stormy petrel in baseball. Wrigley was a fan who had almost unlimited confidence in the Rajah, and gave him the utmost backing. Whether the heirs of the chewing gum magnate will have the same attitude remains to be seen.

Incidentally, Hornsby might have a hard time to land anywhere else. He has been to St. Louis, New York, and Boston, and his popularity in these cities is nothing to brag about. His playing days are nearing the end, and his career in baseball would seem to depend upon his success in Chicago. In the Cubs he has a powerful team, even if Hack Wilson has been replaced by Burleigh Grimes. Wrigley gave him wonderful financial backing, and it is barely possible that the Rajah will come through in 1932, and upset the Cardinal baseball farm.

Tilden's series with Hans Nusslein, the German star, has demonstrated that the old master is still capable of playing a great game, and, to some, his play is almost enough to make them believe that he could take on Henri Cochet and win the match. Doubting the latter, we nevertheless have observed that Big Bill shows a wonderful will to win. He plays for victory and when necessary, in his Nusslein matches, he put on pressure and got the set.

In the first eight of the matches the American expert won seven, one in Hamburg, one in Berlin, one in Paris and the others here. In the five contests in this country the young German has won the first two sets in four matches, only to see the veteran take the next three and win. Regarding Nusslein's ability, most critics rank him No. 2 among the professionals of the world.

Max Baer, who saw a man crumple up and die from the effects of a fight with him in California, recently discussed the effect of this tragedy upon his ring style, saying that it caused him to pull his heavy blows when an opponent was on the down grade. "Although he was not blamed for the death of his opponent Baer said: 'whenever I got a man groggy I remembered poor Frankie Campbell hanging on the ropes and me whanging away at his head.' However, says Max, that fear has passed away, and he is ready to hit 'em all as hard as he can."

Gar Wood has regained for the United States the water speed championship. In his Miss America IX, he averaged 110.78 miles per hour, just shading Kaye Don's record of 110.22. Brooklyn has bought Hack Wilson from the Cardinals and ex-

DO CLOTHES MAKE THE MAN?

You can take Aaron Goldman's courage; you can even take his clothes, but you can't rob him of his indomitable courage.

Aaron is the presiding genius of the Star Loan and Mortgage Company, 30 North Dearborn street, Chicago. From this you can guess that nothing leaves Aaron's place without interest.

Three bad and bold bandits came to Aaron's office one day last week. They robbed him of $200 in cash, and then they took his coat, vest and pants. Yes, the ones he was wearing!

But, as has already been said, the bandits, did not take Aaron's courage, nor did he experience a moment of embarrassing action on his part. Clad only in his underwear, shoes and socks, Goldman led a chase down the street that ended in the capture of one of the bandits.

When the robbers entered Goldman's office and pulled out revolvers and forced him into an inner office. They took off his trousers and his shirt. The shirt they used to tie him to a chair. Then they scooped up the loot from the cash box and fled. Goldman worked loose and dashed down eight flights of stairs after the men.

His unusual appearance and his shouts attracted the attention of several men on the street who joined in the chase. One of the bandits was collared and taken to the Central police station, where a revolver was found in his pocket.

But the bandit who got away was the one who carried Aaron's money.

Records show that the new and heavier golf ball is making many successful assaults upon par in the tournaments being held in this country and golfers express the hope that it will receive international recognition. Down in Argentina an 800-mile two-day race recently cost one life. Thirteen of the 38 drivers completed the race. John L. MISS LOUISE FAUST
PASSED AWAY AT HOME WEDNESDAY

Had Taught School at New Orleans 42 Years—Resided Here Past Eight Years.

Miss Louise Faust, native of New Orleans, aged 78 years, passed away at the Faust home in Carroll avenue at 10 o'clock Wednesday night, following a long siege of illness from an heart affliction.

The remains were taken to New Orleans Thursday morning for interment in the family place at Greenwood cemetery, accompanied by Mrs. E. J. Leonard, Miss Belle Faust, Mrs. Albert Leonard and others.

The deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Faust, and her life profession was that of teaching, serving in the classroom of the New Orleans city schools for a period of over forty-two years.

She is survived by her sister, Miss Belle Faust, with whom she made her home; one brother at New Orleans, William C. Faust, and several nieces and nephews, locally well-known of whom are Mrs. E. J. Leonard, of Bay St. Louis, Miss, and Mr. E. A. Kalinski, 2234 W. Garfield Blvd., Chicago.

Miss Faust's death, although not totally unexpected, was a surprise to the community. She was well known here, residing in Bay St. Louis with her sister at the family home corner Carroll avenue and Second street, during the past eight years and during that period had formed a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. Miss Faust was widely known in New Orleans and her demise is generally regretted.

Coast Press Club In Monthly Meeting At Buena Vista, Biloxi

The Mississippi Coast Press Club met Monday night at the Buena Vista Hotel, Biloxi, for the monthly dinner meeting. President Chas. G. Moreau of Bay St. Louis, presided and made a talk on the printing business in general and with special reference to the Coast area. Arthur V. Smith, of Pascagoula, told of a bill before the legislature to set printing prices, a bill that did not pass. A round table discussion by the members closed the session.

The business phase of the meeting brought out many interesting points regarding conditions, etc. It was pointed out that the prices of printing along the entire coast had been greatly reduced in all shops and should prove an incentive for the live-awake business man to fill up on needed supplies. Prices of printing, it was pointed out, have never been as low as at present and could not go lower.

The social side of the meeting is always acceptable and takes away the dull side and monotony of business discussion.

The next meeting will be in Gulfport, March 7 with Miss Mary Fentress as hostess. Those in attendance Monday night were: Mr. and Mrs. Chas. G. Moreau and L. S. Elliott, Bay St. Louis; Miss Mary Lena Fentress, R. E. Brash and L. E. Rhian, Gulfport; O. E. Simon, Long Beach; Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Wilkes and E. B. Brumfield, Biloxi; W. T. Sparkman and Arthur V. Smith, of Pascagoula.

The presence of Arthur V. Smith, of the Pascagoula Chronicle-Star was most welcome, after an absence of a year or more, caused by illness. It was noted that he has fully recovered and is again his old active self. Mr. Smith was representative of Jackson county in the Legislature.

Mrs. C. C. Clark of Bay St. Louis Speaker
At Lake Shore School

The February meeting of Lake Shore P. T. A., which was held Tuesday night of this month, proved to be the greatest of the year. Mrs. C. C. Clark of Bay St. Louis spoke on the "Parents Responsibility in Helping the Teacher Train Their Children." The speech was very appropriate and judging from the attention of the listeners everyone present was greatly benefited. We also had with us Mr. A. S. McQueen, County Superintendent of Education, who led the singing.

The auditorium was crowded of its capacity with interested fathers and mothers.

A motion was introduced and passed that we combine Arbor Day and George Washington's Birthday Celebration into a tree planting day on February 19. A short program will be furnished by the school on the afternoon of Washington's Birthday.

Store at Clermont Harbor Is Looted Of Edible Merchandise

Deputy Sheriff H. L. Kergosien, accompanied by Justice of Peace August Ruhr, and assisted by Willie Ladner, arrested two colored youths Tuesday, H. T. Moore of Waveland, and Andrew Collins of Clermont Harbor, and charged them with robbing the Lorser Store of Clermont Harbor Monday night.

The loot was found at the home of Moore, Waveland, and consisted of a long list of groceries and other edibles, totaling considerable. The charges of entering and stealing have been made against both men, and Judge Ruhr will give the men a hearing and trial at his court in Waveland.

Sellers School

The primary folks are getting great pleasure out of reading new library books. The first grade pupils have made some very neat spelling booklets and are working hard to make good grades in them. Pupils of this grade have gathered pictures illustrating scenes of Eskimo life for our bulletin board, and are writing sentences about each thing.

The sixth grade is glad to welcome Austin Polk back to school, after an absence of two weeks. The fifth and sixth grades are busy reviewing this week for test. Everybody is trying to get on the honor roll. The seventh grade finished their Mississippi History the first semester, and since then they have been studying Health. They find this study very interesting. The English Grade will soon finish Civics. They will take up the study of Forestry in place of Civics.

The second year Home Economics girls have just completed their dress unit, and will study appropriate dress to prepare for their style show which will take place next week.

The first year Home Economics girls gave a luncheon on last Wednesday morning with Mrs. C. P. Barker as their guest.

The classes of Sellers High School are reviewing for six weeks test which will begin the latter part of this week. Everyone is working hard to get on the honor roll this month. Henrietta Bond and Monnie Lou Ladner are out of school this week on account of an automobile accident Sunday. Neither is very seriously injured.

Depends On Farm

Business men who think they are not vitally concerned with the welfare of agriculture make a foolish mistake. Every line of industry falls back when the financial income of the farmer is reduced so that there is no margin for buying.

The automobile industry knows this. According to census figures there were in April, 1930, 4,134,675 automobiles on a lesser number of farms and 920,395 tractors. These figures show the dependence of the automobile industry upon the farmer for patronage.

The same situation is true in regard to other manufacturing products as well. The first step to bring prosperity back to America generally is solving the problems of agriculture so that the farmer can make a fair return upon his capital and labor. If a farmer cannot buy the manufacturer and merchant cannot sell. Our big business men and political leaders might as well recognize that fact.

Local business men should realize that the same truth works in their local markets. Merchants and commercial organizations can do more for the prosperity of their towns by improving the prosperity of farmers in their community than by any other action. Only short-sighted merchants fail to realize this, but many who do are not active in efforts to solve the marketing and producing problems of their local farmers.

Ability Overrated.

One lesson should stand out from the experience of the last few years. That is that the general public has a largely exaggerated idea of the foresight and ability of the great capitalists of industry.

Our highly-considered business leaders have allowed American industry and finances to drift in as serious a situation as ever confronted either. Profits have disappeared, unemploy-
